Alumni Celebrate 75 Years of HCHC
Dear Alumni/Alumnae,
Greetings in Christ our Savior!

It gives me great joy to be writing to you in yet another edition of Together Again as we approach our historic 75th Anniversary. I would like to begin my letter to you by expressing my gratitude to three alumni who are instrumental in the production of this magazine. Adam Pantazelos (SOT 2010) is a recent graduate of Holy Cross and is responsible for most of the artistic direction and content of the magazine. Fr. James Katinas (SOT 1991) has rejoined the HCHC family as the Director of Institutional Advancement and has worked tirelessly during his first three months in the office to ensure that all printed materials at HCHC maintain the highest level of integrity and adhere to all institutionally mandated messaging and branding standards. Presbytera Gloria Costarakis (HC 2005) assists with the gathering of information for the magazine and the updating of alumni information. In addition to these three alumni, I would like to thank Peggy Giovane, who is responsible for the graphic design and who puts up with all of our opinions and artistic changes with great patience and humility.

I hope that you take the time to flip through these pages and see all the exciting things that are happening on our campus as well as all of the accomplishments that your love, prayers and monetary offerings have made possible. Some of the noteworthy stories you can read about are: the kick-off of the two-year celebration of our 75th Anniversary, our first Alumni Homecoming event, success stories of fellow alumni, the classes of 1962 and 1987 to be honored in May, and much more. It is our hope that this 75th Anniversary issue will rekindle fond memories of your experiences at HCHC as well as ignite a new flame of excitement for the next 75 years of our beloved Schole. Additionally, may this publication serve as your open invitation to come visit your Alma Mater whenever your schedule permits in order to witness all that HCHC currently has to offer.

In closing, if you have not done so recently, I would ask each of you to update your information on the form provided on our website and be sure to provide us with your most current email address so that we can send this electronic publication to as many of you as possible (hard copies available upon request). Please continue being ambassadors of our two schools by raising awareness amongst our Orthodox faithful and spreading the word to potential students. Finally, and most importantly, keep us in your prayers, beseeching the Lord to “show us the way we should go” to the glory of His holy name.

With love in Christ,

Gregory Floor (SOT 2005)
Director of Admissions/Alumni Relations
Over the 75 year history of Hellenic College Holy Cross, there have been countless people who have been involved with our Schole as administrators, staff, faculty, alumni, students, trustees and benefactors. As we celebrate our 75th anniversary, let us remember those who have been instrumental in making HCHC what it is today.
Beloved Alumnae and Alumni,

The blessed words that our Lord offered to His disciples, Abide in Me, and I in you, (John 15:4) have great meaning for our lives and ministry. On the night of the Last Supper just hours before His arrest, trial, and Passion, our Lord spoke words of strength, preparing the disciples for what was about to happen and revealing the foundation of their work for the remainder of their lives. Being Himself the True Vine and thinking of His disciples as its branches, He would be the source of their power and grace ultimately helping them to bear great fruit.

You know that the source of the grace and strength in your life is Jesus Christ. When you came to Hellenic College and Holy Cross, communion with our Lord was emphasized through worship, teaching, and by example as essential to sustaining your spiritual life and preparing you to bear fruit in the lives of others. You also know how crucial it is to nurture your relationship with Christ through prayer, contemplation, discipline, retreat, and the sacramental life of the Church.

One of the greatest challenges in your service, however, is having the time to care for your own soul as you care for the souls of others. This is why Christ admonished the disciples, abide in Me and I in you…for without me you can do nothing (15:4-5). The branch that is not connected to the vine withers because it is no longer nourished by the source of life, but the branch that remains in the vine will bring blessings to others and glory to God. If you abide in Me, and My words abide in you, you will ask what you desire, and it shall be done for you. By this My Father is glorified, that you bear much fruit… (15:7-8).

It is so important for your wellbeing and your sacred work that you remain connected to Christ. You need His presence with you every day as you respond to needs and offer guidance. You need His power in witnessing of His grace and of the Gospel of truth and love. You also need His grace, so that your heart continues to look with compassion on so many who need healing and salvation. My prayer and encouragement to you is to abide always in the Lord. Tend to your soul, and experience the great power and grace that will come from the True Vine and bear great fruit in the kingdom of God.

With paternal love in Christ,

†DEMETRIOS
Archbishop of America
Dear Fellow Alumni and Friends All,

The Psalmist praises God for His assured presence in the daily living of all people. He praises God for the sustenance. He provides all beings through the wonders of nature. The 150 glorious Psalms address a myriad of life’s experiences and the grandeur of God’s abiding love, renewal and enlightenment.

We who are fortunate to be the personnel of Hellenic College Holy Cross find salient expressions of gratitude in the phrases of the Psalms that remind us of the privileges we enjoy in being diakonoi of our School’s mission and calling. For example, we pray with the Psalmist:

Those who trust in the Lord are like Mount Zion which cannot be moved, but abides forever. As the mountains surround Jerusalem, so the Lord surrounds His people from this time forth and forever. Psalm 25:1-2

Oh, give thanks to the Lord, for He is good! For His mercy endures forever. Psalm 136:1

I love the Lord, because He has heard my voice and my supplications. Because He has inclined His ear to me, therefore I will call upon Him as long as I live. Psalm 116:1-2

Here at Hellenic College Holy Cross, we witness God’s call to individuals, couples and student couples with families to serve in His Church. These people are called to serve as clergy, as educational and pastoral leaders, as chaplains in the military, at hospitals and prisons, as well as in schools and colleges throughout the world. As America’s population experiences a spurt in the numbers of the aging, some of our future chaplains will be called to serve that most deserving portion of our population. All these students and their families come to our school with a great deal of trust. They trust our personnel, our faculty, our deans, you - our beloved Alumni - our trustees and all our esteemed benefactors. They have deep faith in God and hope in the wholesomeness of our HCHC family.

Thank you for making our School better each day of its past 75 years and for your commitment to its important future.

Rev. Nicholas C. Triantafilou
President

The Alumni Association takes great pride in assisting the Theological School and College in any way that we can. I thank all the alumni who have answered the call to the requests put forth by our association. It is our hope that the future alumni will continue this great zeal that the founders of our Schole had, and that we all may rejoice in these 75 years but also look forward to celebrating a joyous 100 years.

I wish you all a blessed and healthy New Year.

Fr. George Chioros
Alumni Association President
On behalf of the Alumni Association President Rev. Fr. George Chioros and the Hellenic College & Holy Cross Alumni Board and Association, I pray this letter finds you all well. We have begun preparations to honor those alumni who have reached either their 25 or 50 year anniversary since their graduation. To those of you from the classes of 1962 and 1987, we all join in with one voice to extend to you heartfelt congratulations!!!

In celebration of this wonderful 25 or 50 year milestone, we hope you will join your classmates in our alumni festivities which will take place during this year’s graduation week on May 16-19, 2012. Alumni activities will be planned for the 16th and 17th of that week with commencement on the 19th. Please save the date as your classes will be honored in the chapel by His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios and our president Fr. Nicholas C. Triantafilou in the presence of the faculty, administration, staff and students of our two beloved schools.

You will be receiving an official invitation with more details concerning events and schedules, accommodations, special services and the dinner with His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios. Please know that your presence on our campus for the events will also be an opportunity for you to meet current students and to see how the campus and campus life has changed over the years. We look forward to having you back at YOUR school and to sharing in the fellowship and memories with your fellow classmates as we honor your dedicated service throughout the years.

With love in Christ,
The Office of Alumni Relations
The HCHC Office of Alumni Relations would like to extend our gratitude to those who have generously supported the endeavor to fund our HCHC Alumni Memorial Wall. As a result of our two Memorial Wall pleas which were sent out in October 2010, and June, 2011, we have received approximately half of the funds necessary to provide for the Memorial Wall in its entirety. We ask that you continue to support this cause by sending donations to the HCHC Alumni Association at 50 Goddard Ave, Brookline, MA 02445 and writing “Memorial Wall” under the memo section. In addition, please feel free to visit our Alumni Page on the HCHC Website to find an updated Memorial Wall list which you can download and add to your personal or parish prayer lists.

“The Church is a body with many different needs. We need to reflect on how to contribute, but need to be imaginative with how we serve.”

-Perry Hamalis (SOT 1996)

For many of our Hellenic College Holy Cross alumni who have graduated over the 75-year history of our school, ordination is the path that they have undertaken as a way to serve Christ and His Church. While there is no doubting the nobility and holiness of this sacred vocation within the life of the Church, many of our HCHC lay alumni, both male and female, have also taken up the yoke of ministry by utilizing their God-given talents in other ways. Perry Hamalis is one such example. He holds the Cecelia Schneller Mueller Chair of Religion at North Central College, a Methodist affiliated school in Naperville, IL. Although he is not ordained, Perry is still very much involved in ministering and teaching others about the Orthodox faith in a religiously diverse academic environment.

Perry Hamalis grew up in Elmhurst, and attended Holy Apostles Church in Westchester, Illinois, where he was baptized by the much-loved protopresbyter, Fr. William Chiganos. He later went to Boston College for his undergraduate studies, majoring in philosophy. During this time, he developed close friendships through OCF with a number of the seminarians who were already attending HCHC. He recalls that he would receive rides to the campus of HCHC while he was at Boston College, and would often attend services in the Holy Cross Chapel. As a result of his familiarity with the student body and his exposure to the “Holy Hill,” he experienced a very smooth transition when he enrolled at Holy Cross as a seminarian in 1992.
Perry has very fond memories of Holy Cross, one of which involved His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios of America while he was teaching Old Testament. In class once, His Eminence, then Bishop Demetrios, told his students that we have “nothing to be afraid of in our studies” and instructed them to be rigorous in examining both the Bible text and our Orthodox Christian tradition. He also remembers just how much he enjoyed living and worshiping on campus, and says that “one of the most formative dimensions about my time at Holy Cross was daily chapel attendance…I miss that.”

While working toward his M.Div., Perry married his wife, Pat, who at the time was working toward her Master’s in Nursing at Boston College. After graduation, they moved to Chicago to begin their respective Ph.D. programs, and are now parents to two children, Michael Romanos (13) and Gia Karria (11).

Since earning his Ph.D. in Ethics from the University of Chicago, Perry has been working at North Central College as a professor in the Religious Studies and Philosophy department. Some of the courses he teaches are Christian Ethics, Religion and Politics, World Religions, and Philosophical Ethics, in addition to Urban Ethics and Religion. Last December he taught a travel seminar on “Orthodox Christianity in Historical-Cultural Context” and had an opportunity to take forty-five undergraduate students to Turkey and Greece with one of his colleagues. In Constantinople, their group had an audience with His All-Holiness Patriarch Bartholemew, after which they spent a week in Athens visiting churches, museums, and monasteries. He is grateful for the experience, as it was the first time he was able to teach a course on Orthodoxy to predominantly non-Orthodox college students.

Although he is a devout Orthodox Christian who is the assistant chanter at his home parish and, who, with his priest’s blessing, preaches regularly in church while also offering some adult education courses in the Metropolis of Chicago, he feels very comfortable teaching at a school affiliated with the Methodist Church. For him, one of the most valuable aspects is that religion is taught in phenomenological and academic way, asking students critical questions about their faith as well as other faiths, with the aim of moving from mere opinions to deepened understanding. His passion for teaching and engaging students both in and out of the classroom earned him the “Dissinger Award for Outstanding Teaching and Service” at North Central College. In addition, his leadership abilities led to his appointment in 2007 as Director of the College Scholars Honors Program, a role he continues to fulfill.

While Perry has tremendous respect for the priesthood, he believes there are countless ways to serve Christ using our gifts and talents. When asked about it, he stated, “The Church is a body with many different needs. We need to reflect on how to contribute, but also need to be imaginative with how we serve.” He added that the Church needs priests, professors, journalists, etc., and hopes that his efforts in his role as a teacher and scholar have helped to support the essential work the clergy are doing. Currently his book, Formed by Death, is being prepared for publication with the University of Notre Dame Press, and he is co-editing a collaborative book called Orthodox Christian Perspectives on War, which explores this timely topic from multidisciplinary viewpoints.

The HCHC Alumni Association applauds Holy Cross alumnus Perry Hamalis on all the work he is doing and hopes that his story will inspire others who seek to minister as laypersons in the Church and society.
The first ever Hellenic College Holy Cross Alumni homecoming offered an opportunity for HCHC alumni to come together once again to worship while engaging in fellowship and ongoing education on the campus of HCHC.

October 10th - 12th activities included the annual Hellenic College vs. Holy Cross Football Game, the 3rd Annual HCHC Alumni vs. Seniors Bowling Tournament, and the 1st ever HCHC Alumni vs. Students Basketball Game. The results of the aforementioned activities are as follows:

Hellenic College vs. Holy Cross Football Game: Holy Cross defeated Hellenic College in triple overtime 27-21.

HCHC Alumni vs. HCHC Students Bowling: The Alumni averaged 106 in narrowly beating the students who had a 101 combined average.

HCHC Alumni vs. HCHC Students Basketball Game: The Alumni defeated students 62-55 in regulation time.

Alumni Homecoming introduced an ongoing education component with a lecture given by Dr. Timothy Patitsas (SOT 1994) entitled The Hospitality of Abraham: Pastoral and Ethical Reflections.

The Schole is about to embark on a journey of celebration to mark a most auspicious and important milestone, the 75th anniversary of its founding. It has grown from humble beginnings in the rural town of Pomfret, Connecticut to its present state astride the Brookline-Boston border. It started with fourteen students, truly pioneers in a bold experiment, and has grown into an institution that can boast not only of hundreds of clergy serving the Church in the United States and in many countries around the world, but also of graduates who teach in many colleges and universities as well as those who carry the ideals of their faith and heritage into diverse professions and our society at large.

Suffice it to say that Holy Cross’ early years were difficult times. Those of us who have had the privilege, indeed the blessing, of speaking with graduates of the school from the Pomfret era, became aware of the hardships those students endured. There were water shortages, food was sometimes hard to come by during the war years and a vegetable garden was necessary. But perseverance was the order of the day, the experiment proved successful and we are all the better for it today.

It is important to have an understanding of our beginnings in order to better appreciate what we are charged with supporting, sustaining and passing on to future generations, that we might imitate and honor those who came before us and struggled so mightily to plant their faith and heritage in this new world. Here follows a portion of the introduction to Fr. Vaporis’ Chronicle, providing us with some little known facts about the school’s origins. “Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology was a dream of Archbishop Athenagoras, elected archbishop of America on 30 August 1930. At the Sixth Clergy-Laity Congress in Boston (1935) the need for American trained clergy was discussed officially for the first time. A decision was taken to establish a two-year preparatory theological school where young men could be trained in the Greek language and orthodox religion and then sent abroad to complete their theological education in Greece or Constantinople. This idea was embraced by the Archdiocesan Mixed Council on 9 September 1936. At the Clergy-Laity Congress of Brockton (October 1936), Archbishop Athenagoras felt confident enough to announce his plans for the theological school.”

Holy Cross opened in September of 1937. Fifteen students entered at that time. Three would leave for various reasons and two new students would enter the following year with advanced standing. They, with the remaining twelve, would comprise the first class of graduates.
first graduating class in 1942. The plans for a two year preparatory school were scrapped with the start of World War II and the school expanded to a five year program. The school would remain in Pomfret for ten years, even existing in both Pomfret and Brookline for one year before the move to Brookline was completed in September of 1947.

The Holy Cross Alumni Association was formed in May of 1950. The first officers were: President, Fr. George Papadeas, ’42; Vice-President, Fr. George Gallos, ’43; Secretary, (later Fr.) Homer Goumenis, ’48; and Treasurer, Fr. James Chreston, ’44. The campus grew to its present size of fifty two acres from those humble beginnings and the institution expanded into a college that began granting the BA degree in 1968 and a graduate school of theology that grants the MDiv, MTS and ThM.

A 75th Anniversary Committee was formed in the Spring of 2011, charged with planning a series of events that would celebrate the school’s history with opportunities for spiritual reflection, academic and theological convocations and conferences, exhibits and fund-raising. The committee consists of a broad range of representation from the school’s trustees, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni and members of the Greek Orthodox community. Plans are for the celebration to culminate at Commencement of 2013. This will also mark the 50th anniversary of the opening of Holy Cross Chapel.

Sadly, Fr. George Papadeas reposed just as this edition of Together Again went to press. Eternal Memory!

St. Romanos the Melodist Byzantine Choir

Led by the new Assistant Professor of Byzantine Music, Grammenos Karanos, the choir is composed of students from Hellenic College Holy Cross and had the opportunity to chant for an audience of attendees at the 75th Anniversary kickoff on the Odyssey.

The inaugural event of the 75th Anniversary of Holy Cross kicked off on October 16th with a dinner cruise on Boston harbor on The Odyssey. The night brought together trustees, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends of the school in a joyous beginning to two years of celebration, reflection and education.

Other events, to be announced soon, are in the planning stages. Some of these will occur in several parts of the country and will be an opportunity for alumni and faithful to join in the celebration. A major effort of the committee, with assistance from many across the country, will be a commemorative album consisting of a written and pictorial history of the school as well as a fund-raising component.

A special section on the HCHC website is being developed that will have ongoing news about anniversary events.

Please contact John Papson at jpapson@hchc.edu (or 617-850-1377) for more information or to sponsor an event in honor of the 75th anniversary.
ACCREDITATION

From November 6-10, 2011 HCHC was visited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC) and the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada (ATS) for the purpose of re-accreditation. For the past year and a half we were involved in a rigorous self-study which was led by Dr. Bruce Beck. All the hard work and preparation of documents culminated in a well received visit from the ATS and NEASC teams. The Chairmen of both Visiting Teams expressed the gratitude of all their Team Members for the genuine and warm reception our community extended to them throughout the days of their visit.

HCHC received from both Teams many positive remarks about our institutional mission, function and community life. We also received a number of constructive recommendations as we plan for the future. The official statement and decisions will be forwarded to us after the Commissions of both ATS and NEASC meet in February of 2012. An official decision will be received in the first week of March 2012.

DIACONATE PROGRAM

Holy Cross welcomed thirty-nine students to its campus to participate in the annual Summer Session of the Special Program for the Diaconate. This was the fifth summer session of the new Program for the Diaconate, a non-degree program under the joint direction of the faculty of Holy Cross and the Holy Eparchial Synod. For two weeks in August (August 1-12, 2011) students took intensive courses in church history, pastoral care, liturgics, chant, and Greek all taught by current or emeritus faculty of Holy Cross.

His Eminence Metropolitan Alexios of Atlanta spent a day with the students addressing particular pastoral and ecclesiastical responsibilities of the deacon in the Orthodox Church. Students enrolled in the program come from all metropolises of the Archdiocese. Seven students completed the program over the summer, while the Summer Session saw nine new students enter the program. To date, seven graduates of the program have been ordained to the holy diaconate.

KALLINIKEION INSTITUTE

August 2011 marked the ten year anniversary of the Kallinikeion Institute at Hellenic College. The program, generously funded by the Kallinikeion Foundation, offers a full-immersion, intensive language program in Modern Greek at no cost to all full-time HCHC students and especially to all Greek Orthodox seminarians. With two hundred and sixty nine graduates and 1,846 hours of instruction, the Kallinikeion Institute has undertaken the responsibility of educating HCHC students to be ambassadors of Hellenic language and culture nationwide. Many Kallinikeion graduates are already serving in parishes across the U.S., bringing their love and knowledge of Modern Greek to their communities.

This year the Kallinikeion Institute at Hellenic College offered two sections of Beginning Modern Greek and one section of Intermediate Modern Greek with a total enrollment of 47 students, the majority of whom are seminarians. Kallinikeion faculty included Mata Dova, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Classics and Modern Greek Studies at Hellenic College and Kallinikeion Institute Director, Panayotis League, Ph.D. and Instructor of Modern Greek Studies and Music at Hellenic College, and Kleanthi Mavrogiani, M.A., Visiting Instructor of Modern Greek Studies at Hellenic College and director of “Greek for Kids.”
Come and See Scholarship

This scholarship provides for up to 80% of tuition for up to four years for all incoming students in Hellenic College. The purpose of this scholarship is to encourage young men and women to “come and see” what Hellenic College is all about with the confident expectation that, after experiencing the academic and Orthodox Christian environment on campus, students will want to stay for their entire course of study in the college. This sizeable tuition break currently is being offered for all accepted Hellenic College students.

Chrysostom Scholarship

This scholarship operates in conjunction with the St. John Chrysostom Oratorical Festival that takes place annually in the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America and Orthodox jurisdictions which hold an annual Oratorical Festival. The Chrysostom Scholarship will be awarded to the first-place speaker (male or female) in each parish. This award will provide 100% of tuition for the recipient’s first year of study at Hellenic College and up to 80% of tuition for the remaining three years. This is an estimated savings of more than $65,000. The Chrysostom Scholarship is intended to afford young men and women the opportunity to continue their education in an Orthodox Christian environment while also encouraging more parishes to participate in the Oratorical Festival.
I was never too sure about Hellenic College. Maybe because it seemed that the school itself wasn’t quite sure of who it should be – whether a liberal arts college, a preparatory college for seminarians, a Greek Orthodox Christian college, or something else.

When I entered Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology in the late 1980s after graduating from Penn State, I met some wonderful graduates from Hellenic College. In fact, the valedictorian of my class was a Hellenic graduate. During my three and a half years at HCHC, though, it seemed that the Hellenic students were mostly seminarians, and not much else.

In 2005, I returned from ten years in the mission field and came to teach at Holy Cross. I must confess that I still held a skeptical view of the undergraduate school. Over the past six years, however, as I have taught classes in Hellenic College, my attitude has completely changed! I have seen the school come to a clearer understand of who she is – an Orthodox Christian college, which prepares some students to enter the graduate school of theology through their religious studies program, while educating other students in elementary education, management and leadership, literature and history, the classics and Greek studies, and human development.

I’ve noticed a definite change in the student body, with a number of smart, gifted and faithful students who could have gone to other colleges or universities yet chose to come to Hellenic College because of the unique educational opportunities here. The School’s Cross Road summer program has played an important role in this transformation. Outstanding high school juniors and seniors are coming to their summer program for two weeks, getting a taste of life on the “holy hill,” and from that experience deciding to enter Hellenic College.

The direction and mission of the school has become more refined, and this vision is more apparent to both students and observers of the school. The mission statement on Hellenic College’s website states in part, “Graduates leave us deeply committed to a life of faith, learning and service. We trust that these men and women will excel in their chosen careers and make the world a better place.” I see that these aren’t just words, but a present reality. Hellenic College students have certain unique opportunities to learn at a higher institution with a clear Greek Orthodox Christian character.

I’ve seen students inspired by taking on the new President’s Challenge, which combines learning and practical opportunities of service to the community at large. Last semester ten students spent their spring break going on a short-term missions trip to an orphanage in Guatemala, and three others began their summer by going on a school led missions trip to Albania. And a number of students participate in a weekly soup kitchen held at Resurrection of Christ Orthodox Church in Boston.

Having such experiences, and then being able to process them within a faith-based community can help young college students come to a deeper understanding of what life is truly about – loving and serving one another.

As a student at HCHC 20 years ago, I would not have imagined encouraging one of my children to go to Hellenic College. Today, I have quite a different attitude. Hellenic College offers something unique. I’ve seen children of peers and friends who have sent their daughters and sons to Hellenic, and they love the experience. I have a parishioner whom I am encouraging to consider Hellenic next year. I would even say that in the future, if one of my four children decided this school is the best fit for them, I would not only accept their decision, I would be pleased.

Hellenic College has always sought to be a place where men and women can prepare for careers in an Orthodox Christian environment. Many of our Hellenic College alumni have gone on to experience success in their fields of study, using their Hellenic College education as a stepping stone to furthering their career aspirations, while not forgetting their roots and from where they came. Eugenia Giannakopoulou is an alumna of Hellenic College who has gone on to have success as an attorney both in the United States and in Greece, while remaining focused on what is most important in life.

Evgenia (or Jennie, as she is known) graduated from Hellenic College in 1996 with a Bachelor of Arts in Human Development. She recalls very fondly that, although Hellenic College is in the United States, for her it felt like being home in Greece. During her time at Hellenic College, she became very fond of hearing Byzantine chant, speaking the Greek language, and eating in the Condakes Refectory. Most importantly, she believes that Hellenic College provided her with a solid basis and starting point for the rest of her professional career.

For two years after her commencement, Jennie worked with delinquent and emotionally challenged adolescents. After earning a Master’s of Science degree in Criminology from Northeastern University, she received a Juris Doctor from Boston University School of Law with a specialization in International Law. While in law school she was also thankful to receive two scholarships which assisted her with tuition, the Alexander S. Onassis Public Benefit Foundation and Eleni Gatzoyannis scholarships. During this time, she also served as a summer law clerk to Judge Richard G. Stearns with the United States District Court in Boston, MA, and as an Adviser to the Permanent Mission of Greece to the United Nations in New York. Currently she is a member of the Boston, American, Hellenic, and Athens Bar Associations.

Much of this experience led to a very memorable and exciting time in her life, as she returned to Greece and assisted with the national task of preparing to host the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens. As the International Security Cooperation Project Manager, she was a member of the Security Division participating in critical security planning, while also being the liaison to the international clients of the Organizing Committee (National Olympic Committees, Security Agencies, Sponsors).

“I want to maintain a life-work balance, create a happy family, raise children who know the difference of right from wrong, choose to follow their heart in doing the right thing, appreciate what God has given them, and think creatively in an effort to make this world - and in particular, this country - a better place.”
Currently, Jennie resides with her husband, Spyros Galiatsatos, and her newborn son Konstantinos in Athens, where she has started her own practice. She now specializes in providing legal services to the Hellenic diaspora worldwide. Being licensed in both Massachusetts and Greece, she says her work allows her to travel a lot and maintain a presence in Boston while still being based in Athens.

In spite of all her experience, Jennie admits the most memorable time of her life was the birth of her son Konstantinos. She believes that her work experiences, career advancement and professional success seem minor when compared to motherhood. With all the challenges of balancing a professional career and the demands of family life, she has not forgotten what is most important to her. To Jennie, her focus is to “maintain a life-work balance, create a happy family, raise children who know the difference of right from wrong, choose to follow their heart in doing the right thing, appreciate what God has given them, and think creatively in an effort to make this world - and in particular, this country - a better place.” Even as she devotes herself to her family, nonetheless, being the founder and managing partner of a law firm has materialized her professional aspirations of providing high quality legal services in a niche practice. For her, this task has proved to be both challenging and fulfilling.

In addition, Jennie has continued to be very active within the Greek-American community in Boston, including teaching Greek for more than ten years, providing legal and interpretation services (both on a paid and pro bono basis) and being an active member of the Pan-Macedonian Association (past president of the Boston Youth Chapter and dance group member).

From her beginnings at Hellenic College, to becoming an attorney practicing in both the United States and in Greece, Jennie is truly grateful for the education that she received from Hellenic College. She says that she is thankful to His Eminence Archbishop Iakovos for having honored her with a scholarship, making it possible for her to study at the School. The HCHC Alumni Association would like to congratulate Jennie on her success both in her career and with the birth of her son Konstantinos, and we pray for the Lord’s continued blessings upon her and her family in the future.

APPLICATION PRIORITY DEADLINE
March 1, 2012
Campus Activities Board (CAB) is an organization committed to community development. At a school that is building well-rounded leaders in the world, CAB offers the students of Hellenic College Holy Cross the ability to connect with everyone more personally on campus. CAB focuses on bringing students and their families together for fellowship and service.

SOME OF OUR EVENTS

Orientation:
This year CAB put together team building exercises to help bring the first year students together. It was an opportunity for them to get to know each other and grow into the community.

Panigiris:
Twice each year, on the Saturdays following the Universal Exaltation of the Holy Cross and following Pascha, CAB puts on a Panigiri open to the entire HCHC community and the Philoxenia House of the Metropolis of Boston. A DJ provides a full evening of entertainment, including traditional Greek folk dances. A group of student volunteers spend two days planning and cooking a fabulous meal enjoyed by all.

Service Projects:
This year, CAB has made it a priority to provide opportunities for students to offer service to the Boston community. This includes offering meals to the homeless, making blankets for hospital patients and running clothing drives to help those in the cold during the winter.

Fall Fest:
Held at the end of October, families in married student housing as well as students in the dormitory, come together in fellowship to play games, paint pumpkins, fish for donuts and even sing karaoke. It’s a “come one, come all” event that truly brings the community together right before it really starts to get cold.

Upcoming Events:
- HCHC Tournament of Champions
- Laser Tag
- Super Bowl Party
- March Madness
- Talent/Variety Show

Work with other student organizations:
Campus Activities Board works closely with many other on campus organizations, especially with the Spiritual Life Committee, offering symposia as a way for students to hear and see examples of wisdom and spirituality from learned and experienced members of the Church. CAB also works closely with the Married Students Association and the Athletic Committee.
From the Editor:

After sending out the first ever “green issue” of Together Again, the Hellenic College Holy Cross Office of Alumni Relations received a great deal of positive and constructive feedback from our HCHC alumni. For the spring issue, our goal was to offer a publication that was both informative, and visually appealing to our Hellenic College Holy Cross alumni base. In addition, we hoped to follow the lead of His All Holiness Patriarch Bartholomew of Constantinople in being more conscious of our actions and the consequences that they have on the environment.

As a result, we received many emails from alumni who expressed their appreciation with our “green issue”. In total, we printed 250 copies of Together Again that were distributed upon request, and emailed everyone who was in our alumni database a link to the PDF version of the magazine, which was viewed on PCs, iPads, e-readers, and even smart phones. Just to illustrate the contrast from past issues, we normally would have printed 1,000 copies of the magazine and mailed them to the homes of alumni that we have in our database. With 750 fewer issues printed and at 28 pages per copy, we ended up saving a grand total of 21,000 pages of paper!

We would like to commend our alumni for supporting our efforts to be environmentally responsible, and we hope to continue making improvements on Together Again moving forward. In addition, we have provided the emails that we received from our HCHC alumni regarding the latest issue of the magazine. Moving forward, we welcome your comments and concerns, and if you would like to provide us with your feedback, please feel free to do so by emailing us at togetheragain@hchc.edu.

I just read through Together Again and wanted to thank you and congratulate you for doing such a great job. The writing, pictures and presentation were just perfect. For many of us, our years passed at HCHC were the best years of our lives in many ways. You capture much of that feeling in Together Again.

Suggestions:

Will Together Again include the Special Program for The Diaconate in the future?
- Michael Albano

TA: Greetings in Christ Michael! Thank you for your suggestion, we have placed an update from the Diaconate Program in this issue under the “Campus Happenings” section on page 17.

It is always good to keep up with the news of the Alumni, especially for the clergy that are on the verge of retirement. How about an article about the past-presidents of the Alumni Association? What are they doing, and what has happened to them?
Thank you.
- Fr. James Rousakis (a past president)

TA: Thank you Father, that is a wonderful idea! The Alumni Association board is currently working on compiling a piece for the spring 2012 issue of Together Again. We hope to interview some of the past presidents in order to put together a timeline of Alumni Association Presidents.

With love in the Lord,

Adam Pantazelos, SOT 2010

(Former Together Again Editor)
Dear Fellow Alumni,

I hope that this letter finds you in good health and spiritual delight as we look to begin the fast of the Nativity of Christ. As this year’s student body president I would like to take this opportunity to share with you the recent happenings of the Student Government Association (SGA).

The very first project that the SGA Executive Board undertook and completed this year was to revitalize our office. Our office is a great place for small meetings and for students to come and meet with their representatives during their office hours. It also showcases one of our student’s artistic abilities with his frescoes of the Holy Cross and the face of Jesus Christ. The SGA welcomes all alumni to our office for a cup of coffee on your next return home.

We are currently working with the Metropolis of New Jersey and the alumni board to revitalize the Saint John Chrysostom Room in the basement of the dormitory. We are looking to add comfortable, fun, stylish and affordable furniture, a new entertainment center, fresh paint and décor to this area. It is our hope to have a part of the J.C. Room named the Alumni Lounge, donating to the alumni association to support the students in this endeavor is a great opportunity for graduates of our school to give back directly to the students to improve the quality of life on-campus.

This year the SGA is also focusing on community service. Each of the Executive Board members will be hosting community service events that are close to their hearts. Some of the classes and other organizations within the SGA will also host such events throughout the year.

The SGA has also been very involved in dialogue with the administration of the school. The SGA has representatives to the faculty meetings of both Hellenic College and Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology. Students are also on the 75th anniversary committee and members of the executive board are in constant working relationship with the Dean of Students, Director of Housing, Chief Operating Officer and President of the School.

I would like to thank all of the alumni who came this year for alumni weekend. The students had a wonderful time being with the alumni who visited Columbus Day Weekend, and even though we lost to the Alumni in the basketball game we look forward to another game next year as we continue to celebrate our school’s 75th anniversary. It is the hope of the students as well as the alumni association that next year’s October reunion can be a more wonderful homecoming, filled with time for fellowship with school mates, social time with current students and corporate worship in our beautiful chapel.

In His Service,
Andrew John Pavlakos
