Dear Stewards of Hellenic College
Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology,

As you well know, the mandate of Hellenic College Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology is to prepare men and women for exemplary service to the Church and society. It is a noble and sacred task that reflects the vitality of our Greek Orthodox Church in America.

You, the careful and generous guardians of our beloved Schole, who have nurtured the growth of this precious institution of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America from its humble beginnings in 1937 into the prominent center for theological education and pastoral formation that it is today, have the gratitude of the Church for your valued offering.

The graduates of Hellenic College Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology are the dynamic workers of Christ’s Vineyard in the United States of America. Whether it be in the leadership of our Archdiocese and its Metropolises, our parishes, our camps, youth and young adult ministries, our missionary activities, our ecumenical outreach, our catechetical programs, or our ministries of charity, this sacred institution has a direct link in strengthening our Orthodox Christian faith and cultural identity in America.

In the pages of this 2015 Annual Report of Hellenic College Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology, you will see how this institution is bringing honor and glory to God through proper education processes of worship and learning, preparing leadership for our parishes and ministries, engaging with the critical issues of our times, and offering a vibrant witness of our Orthodox Christian faith and our universal Hellenic tradition in ecclesiastical, academic, and professional communities.

I thank you for your support of Hellenic College Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology that is equipping the faithful for the work of ministry for the edifying of the body of Christ (Ephesians 4:12). May our good and gracious God enrich you with His bountiful blessings and keep you and your loved ones under His permanent protection.

With paternal love in Christ,

+ DEMETRIOS
Archbishop of America
It is a true honor to have been selected to serve our Archdiocese as the new President of our sacred school. Both the college and the school of theology are the lifelines of our faith in the western hemisphere. Simply and profoundly put, without it – we have no future! No other school offers the opportunity for the future servant-leaders of our faith to be trained to work side-by-side, collegian with the seminarian, to prepare themselves to serve Christ and the faithful.

The world has changed and will continue to change significantly in the near future. In the light of this ever-changing landscape, we must rise to the occasion and offer our best so that the school will not only survive but thrive. In order to do this, we need dedicated individuals who toil day and night at the school, and we need your financial support more than ever before. We must offer a cutting-edge approach to higher education and leadership training like no other place in the world.

As my blessed grandmother used to say, Καθαρός ουρανός, αστραπές δεν φοβάται, a clear sky does not have to worry about lightning. In other words, full disclosure means you don’t ever have to look over your shoulder. We are completely transparent and forthcoming with our financial information. We are, therefore, sending you this detailed report of our efforts. I want you to know how grateful I am for your continued support of the school. We simply could not do this work without you.

So, my friends, please read this document carefully, and, if you feel so moved, call us directly to see how and where you can get involved. If you see your name listed, then you are one of our special ambassadors. I ask you this year to seek out two people who can join you in supporting our school. Share this Annual Report with them, tell them why you support the school, and then ask them to give as you did! It’s that simple. Once you do, next year, when we print our Annual Report, it will double in size and enable growth. This will allow us to offer our students a better education and our dedicated faculty the tools they need to do their jobs better.

We cannot wait any longer. The excuses as to why the schools are not flourishing, both in enrollment and financially, are no longer acceptable. We have been given a divine message that we must communicate, and a heavenly mandate we must carry out.

Some facts you can read more about in this Annual Report are:
- Operational cost have averaged $11.0 million annually over the past 3 years.
- General and administrative expenses remain at 20% of total budget, well below comparable institutions.
- 100% of our students receive some form of scholarship or grant towards their cost of attendance, which has helped alleviate and in some cases eliminate the extra burden of carrying federal student loans.
- 75% of our students underwrite their cost of education through alternative means utilizing financial grants and scholarships.
- Our largest annual supporters of the school are the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America, Leadership 100, and the National Ladies Philoptochos.
- Despite an increase in donations for FY2014, we anticipate some shortfall in 2015.

Finally, please visit our website at: www.hchc.edu, and take a moment to “like” us on Facebook at: www.facebook.com/HellenicCollegeHolyCross. It is on these sites that you will get daily updates on your computer or smart phone informing you of what we are up to. HCHC is a very exciting place bustling with a young spirit, great energy, and an abundance of good will.

Our institution is unique. As part of our community of believers, I pray that you recognize its value and the vital contributions we are making to our society. Won’t you join with us in supporting, to the maximum of your capability, those who will represent Christ to a fallen world?

If you have any questions about the report, or if you would like to share your ideas on how to grow the institution further, please contact me at: 617-850-1280.

In His Service,

V. Rev. Christopher T. Metropulos, D.Min.
President
“What will you do with that major?!” This question is asked every day of thousands of college students by their parents. A college education has become too expensive to leave its outcome to chance.

The success of any college is measured by the success of its students. The rising cost of tuition has prompted the federal government to promote two new measures of “student success”: the Gainful Employment Act now requires that colleges report the percentage of their graduates who are continuing their studies or working in a profession for which their studies prepared them. It also requires that they report the median burden of student debt.

We were proud to report this year to the government that fully 100% of our 2014 graduates were either gainfully employed, using skills they learned here, or continuing their education elsewhere. Students also graduate from Hellenic College with less debt: their median burden of debt was just over $11,000 versus the national average of $35,000. That comes as no surprise: 100% of our students receive HCHC scholarships and grants. The low level of HCHC student debt is one reason why we boast a 0% student loan default rate. This measure is used by the government as evidence that our alumni are in jobs that pay well enough for them to stay current with their payments. By comparison, default rates average 7% at private colleges and universities, 11% at public ones, and 22.7% at for-profit colleges.

Hellenic College takes seriously its responsibility to prepare its students for success. This past year, we expanded our efforts to help students succeed after graduation. We hosted events highlighting internship opportunities. We helped every student write a résumé before graduation. Professional career counselors met with our juniors and seniors. Seasoned professionals held workshops on job searches and interviewing skills. We’re partnering with alumni for networking and job placement opportunities.

As an Orthodox Christian college, however, we would never reduce “student success” to professional or financial attainments. Hellenic College is not about job training, it’s about education, faith, and service! The liberal arts are at the core of our curriculum. We strive for the life of the mind and soul. Students choose Hellenic College because they want to study in a place where they can also pray and serve. Our goal is to help them grow morally, intellectually, and spiritually. Our students succeed when they transform their secular professions into sacred vocations. Our college succeeds when it prepares them for their future by building the Church of Christ.

“Hellenic College is a community that brings together higher education and our Orthodox faith. Through this combination, scholars find an active and engaged student body, as well as faculty and spiritual leaders who are supportive and encouraging. The community at Hellenic College has become a second family to me and has already provided me with new opportunities, personal growth, and many memories!”

BAILIE HENRY, Owasso, OK
Management and Leadership major | Hellenic College class of 2018
The large wooden cross that stands behind the Administration Building is a constant reminder of the call and responsibility placed upon students and faculty who come to study and teach at Holy Cross. This simple cross, perched atop a natural sloping hill, overlooks Jamaica Pond and downtown Boston. An enigmatic symbol, the cross remains meaningless without individuals who bring its meaning and purpose to life.

The 2014-15 academic year was a perfect example of students and faculty whose actions and work reflect the meaning of the cross.

Holy Cross faculty continued to contribute to the academic life of the campus, the Church, and the wider academic community. This year, the faculty of Holy Cross co-sponsored three conferences on topics deeply relevant to our human condition and the calling of the cross. From November 5-7, 2014, Holy Cross hosted the conference, “Exploring the Mind-Body-Soul Connection: Spirituality in Illness and Healing,” which was co-sponsored with The Orthodox Christian Association of Medicine, Psychology, and Religion (OCAMPR). His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios delivered the keynote address. Dr. Philip Mamalakis, Assistant Professor of Pastoral Care, organized the conference. An international conference, “Deaconesses, Ordination of Women, and Orthodox Theology,” held in Thessaloniki, Greece, January 22-24, 2015, was organized by Rev. Dr. Emmanuel Clapsis, Archbishop Iakovos Professor of Orthodox Theology. The conference was held in collaboration with the School of Theology of the University of Thessaloniki and the Center for Ecumenical, Missiological, and Environmental Studies. Dr. Kyriaki FitzGerald, Adjunct Professor of Theology, delivered two papers at the conference and Dr. Thomas FitzGerald, Professor of Church History and Historical Theology, attended the conference as well. Finally, Holy Cross welcomed His Eminence Metropolitan Kallistos Ware to campus on June 20, 2015, to offer a lecture on “Divine Compassion and the Restoration of the Human Icon,” co-sponsored with St. Catherine’s Vision.

Holy Cross students participated in a special service trip to Project Mexico during spring break 2015. The group of students constructed a 12’ x 15’ home for a young Mexican family. The mission trip, according to Jason Oneida (Holy Cross class of 2017), “was an unforgettable experience that altered our entire team’s understanding of the meaning of missionary work; mission work is about communion with others.” Also during the spring semester, Holy Cross students were introduced to a new course, “Social Ministries,” taught by Dr. Timothy Patitsas, Assistant Professor of Ethics. The course requires students to participate in one of a variety of social ministry programs in the Boston, Brookline, or Jamaica Plain areas.

Holy Cross was pleased to welcome two new faculty members to campus this year. Fr. Maximos Constas was appointed as Senior Research Scholar at Holy Cross. Fr. Maximos had previously been serving as a visiting professor. This new appointment provides Fr. Maximos with the stability to continue to work on his research projects, to teach courses at Hellenic College and Holy Cross, and to be available for campus retreats and lectures. Fr. Maximos’ most recent publication, The Art of Seeing: Paradox and Perception in Orthodox Iconography (Sebastian Press, 2014), reflects his extensive knowledge of patristic sources and the vast aesthetic corpus of the Orthodox tradition. Also, during the spring 2015 semester, Holy Cross welcomed His Grace Bishop Kyrillos of Abydos as Visiting Professor of Canon Law for the semester. His Grace is a professor of historical theology and dogmatics on the Faculty of Pastoral Theology at the School of Theology of the University of Athens and is an auxiliary bishop of the Ecumenical Patriarchate. His Grace taught two courses during the spring 2015 semester, the core course in canon law and an elective, “Primacy in the Church: The Position of the Russian Orthodox Church on the Ravenna Document.”

As we welcome with excitement our new President, the V. Rev. Christopher T. Metropulos, D.Min., may we remember the legacy of Fr. Nicholas Triantaafilou, who stepped down as president of HCHC after fifteen years of dedicated service. Fr. Nick was never fearful of preaching the message of the cross, never saw himself as too important to live the humiliation of the cross, and was never too proud to offer himself to those who were in need. Though his illness kept him away for much of his final two years at Holy Cross, those students and faculty who worked with him, studied under him, and were mentored by him will see in their encounters with him an example of how to answer the call of the cross. Our journey at Holy Cross, now under the Christian leadership of Fr. Chris, is to live the life of the cross.

While Hellenic College Holy Cross continues to operate in an increasingly competitive environment, our objectives remain the same. We must ensure that all financial and administrative activities remain student-centered within an overall framework which safeguards the school’s long-term interests.

Mindful of this philosophy, the combined efforts of the Board of Trustees’ Finance Committee and Senior Administration have led to a series of positive actions that have contributed to HCHC’s improved financial landscape for FY2015. These include implementation of higher education best practices, increased internal control, and recruitment of professional staff throughout the institution. We also monitor our revenue sources continually and review our operational expenditures consistently.

Like many other private colleges and universities, Hellenic College Holy Cross is dependent on tuition revenue to cover most of its operating costs. Like our peers, our student body is heavily reliant on financial aid. However, our institution does not rely solely on traditional tuition revenue. Contributions earmarked for student scholarships have resulted in greater financial sustainability. This fiscal support has begun to give the school long-term viability for current and future operations.

With this strategy:

• Operational costs have averaged $11.0 million annually over the past 3 years.

• General and administrative expenses remain at 20% of total budget, well below comparable institutions (Fig. 1).

This strategy has also allowed us to make significant progress toward not only reducing the financial debt burden to students, but also improving the quality of life on our campus.

• 100% of our students receive some form of scholarship or grant toward their cost of attendance, which has helped eliminate the extra burden of carrying federal student loans.

• 75% of our students underwrite their cost of education through alternative means, utilizing financial grants and scholarships (Fig. 2).

The institution is supported by His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios and the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese through its commitment of $1.5 million to HCHC’s operational expenditures. Hellenic College Holy Cross’ greatest source of scholarship support originates from Leadership 100, which contributes $1 million in funding to seminarian students annually. Additionally, the combined efforts of the Board of Directors’ Institutional Advancement Committee and the school’s Institutional Advancement staff has led to an increase of grants and contributions that composed 39% of total revenue in FY 2014 (Fig. 3).

As grateful stewards of the resources entrusted to us, we remain committed to exercising prudent and fiscally sound judgment in our use of these funds.

We are also aware that our human resources represent our most valuable asset and, to this end, we remain committed to being accountable, communicative, and transparent in our relationships with our students, constituents, and donors.

My experience in choosing Hellenic College was different from most. I was raised on campus in the house now known as the Philoxenia House. I have such joyful memories from that time. In high school my family moved off campus to Needham, but when it came time to choose a college, I felt drawn to return, especially after meeting so many great students who were just a year or two ahead of me. Many of those students came to Hellenic College for a summer program after graduating from high school. They were prepared to begin at bigger colleges that fall, but they never left. I count several of them among my lifelong friends and koumbari. We had a wonderful time on campus. With such a small class, it was easy to be involved. Students really took advantage of our greater surroundings, spending time off campus in Brookline and in downtown Boston, as everything was so accessible.

I was very lucky to have two incredible mentors at Hellenic College. Dr. Susan Howard directly influenced my decision to become a lawyer, and Vicki Fatouros, head of the business program, always took a personal interest in me both as a person and as a business student. My father, Rev. Dr. Nomikos Michael Vaporis, was the dean of Hellenic College during the years I was there. He was an advocate for the non-theology students, like myself, and also the women students. He pushed us to do well but also to look beyond and further our education in graduate school.

My program at Hellenic College prepared me well for my professional life. Professor Fatouros always stressed that the business program was not just building managers and administrators but also Orthodox Christian managers and administrators. She articulated that the goal was not to separate those as independent components in our lives. I have tried to carry that with me in my legal practice, not only in my pro bono work but as I negotiate with clients, particularly in sensitive family matters, both personal and financial, which make up my practice.

To high school students I would say that Hellenic College is a very different and a very special school. I received a wonderful undergraduate education taught by truly qualified professors. There was a great emphasis on writing, which I believe is imperative in any profession. While it may not be for everyone because of the size and the limited areas of study, I would encourage all Orthodox Christian students at least to consider the Semester of Faith during their college years. What a wonderful opportunity for immersion in an Orthodox education while forming the same kind of bonds that our students feel when they participate in CrossRoad, Ionian Village, or any of our Orthodox camps.

Theodora Vaporis graduated from Hellenic College in 1984 with a degree in Business Administration. She received a law degree from The Catholic University of America. Currently she lives in Greensboro, North Carolina, where she is an attorney with the law firm of Rossabi Black Slaughter. Theodora has been married for twenty-five years to Dr. Tom Schermerhorn and has three children: Demetra, Sophia, and Janse.
I grew up in Danbury, Connecticut, in the parish of Koimesis tis Theotokou. My parents were excellent role models who dedicated themselves to the love of Christ and the Church. As an altar boy at age five, I was inspired by our parish priest, Fr. John Orfanakos of blessed memory. Later Fr. Peter Karloutso had a tremendous influence on my decision to attend seminary and continues to be a great mentor to me.

I came to Holy Cross after working and attending college full-time at Western Connecticut State University, from which I graduated in 1979. In the fall of that same year, I enrolled in the Master of Divinity program at Holy Cross and graduated four years later in May 1983. My education and training at HCHC gave me the spiritual and academic foundation I needed to serve the Church. Attending liturgical worship on a daily basis was an invaluable experience. My favorite class was Introduction to the Old Testament, taught by Archbishop Demetrios. He made the biblical figures come alive as though he were personally acquainted with them. The professors at Holy Cross were accessible and open to dialogue, and their fellowship at mealtimes in the cafeteria was always enjoyable. Although I lived and worked off campus, I loved its beautiful view of Boston and have warm memories of campus life. My favorite memory is of a time when we students, snowed in by a beautiful April blizzard, had to cook for ourselves in the cafeteria kitchen. The food was fabulous that week!

When I encounter someone who feels called to serve the Lord, I tell them that Holy Cross is the place to be. Although community life can be challenging, seminary is a microcosm that prepares one for parish life and provides the opportunities for soul-searching and spiritual struggle necessary to test one’s calling.

Protopresbyter Paul Kaplanis is dean of the Annunciation Greek Orthodox Cathedral in Atlanta, Georgia. He has served on the youth committee of the Metropolis and held the office of secretary for the Archdiocesan Presbyters Council for eight years. He also served as the only priest representative for the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese on the Charter Revision Committee. He served as the spiritual advisor for the Metropolis of Atlanta Philoptochos from 2011-14 and as a member of the Archdiocesan Council from 2012-14. He is currently the spiritual advisor for the Metropolis Family Life ministry program, a member of the Metropolis strategic plan committee and the spiritual advisor for the Annunciation Day School. He is married to Presbyter Evi Kaplanis and has three children: Michael Kaplanis, Katerina Katsadouros, and Christina Hathaway.
Hellenic College will say goodbye to longtime faculty member John Chirban, Ph.D., Th.D., at the close of the 2015-2016 academic year. Professor of psychology and director of the Human Development program, Dr. Chirban announced his intention to retire in June 2016. Dr. Chirban’s career, spanning four decades, vitally contributed to the development of Hellenic College Holy Cross and the fulfillment of its mission.

Dr. Chirban founded the Human Development program at Hellenic College nearly forty years ago. At its founding, the program was on the cutting edge of disciplinary developments. Rather than focus strictly on psychology, the program embraced a holistic view of the human being. For decades, the program has led students in examining the entire human lifespan from multiple disciplinary perspectives, with an emphasis on the integration of body, mind, and soul. Today, the Human Development program is the largest undergraduate program at Hellenic College, and it is one of many throughout the country that prepare students for professional and academic careers in health provider settings, human services, education, and business.

Dr. Chirban is one of the most prolific scholars in HCHC’s history. His books include both academic and trade publications. What’s Love Got to do With It? (Thomas Nelson, 2007)—later revised and republished as How to Talk with Your Kids about Sex (Thomas Nelson, 2012)—is a popular source of parenting wisdom. He also wrote True Coming of Age: A Dynamic Process that Leads to Emotional Well-Being, Spiritual Growth, and Meaningful Relationships (McGraw-Hill, 2004). He has edited two compendiums exploring themes of Orthodox theology, sickness, and healing: Holistic Healing in Byzantium (Holy Cross Press, 2010), and Sickness or Sin? Spiritual Discernment and Differential Diagnosis (Holy Cross Press, 2001). He also wrote Raised in Glory: Orthodox Understandings of Death, Resurrection, and Immortality (Holy Cross Press, 2002). Dr. Chirban has been a regular guest on the nationally televised Dr. Phil Show and The Doctors. He has been interviewed on dozens of radio programs and lectured extensively, most recently completing a 2014 cross-country tour of eighteen U.S. cities.

Dr. Chirban is also a clinical instructor in psychology at Harvard Medical School at The Cambridge Health Alliance. Throughout his career, he has maintained active involvement in research projects, in conjunction with his work at Harvard Medical School, concerning spirituality and psychotherapy that have bridged his academic, research, and professional counseling activities at Hellenic College. In 2003, he was named Senior Fellow at the Center for the Study of World Religions at Harvard University.

Dr. Chirban founded the Office of Counseling and Spiritual Development at HCHC, offering graduate and undergraduate students opportunities to develop spiritually and professionally. He also founded the Orthodox Christian Association of Medicine, Psychology, and Religion (OCAMPR), a key forum for healing professionals in medicine, psychology, and religion to meet for interdisciplinary dialogue and Christian fellowship. OCAMPR conferences, hosted by HCHC, have brought world-class professionals and theologians to our Brookline campus and contribute to the realization of our mission to be an intellectual, educational, and spiritual center for the Greek Orthodox Church in America.

As Dr. Chirban prepares to transition to the next stage of his career, he shows no indications of slowing down. His current research includes a national study in cooperation with Dr. Phil McGraw on the impact of divorce on children, which will appear in part in Collateral Damage: Guiding and Protecting Your Child Through the Minefield of Divorce, to be published by Harper Collins in 2016. He will continue his collaboration with The Dr. Phil Show, leading a program on “Family Court in Crisis” in the coming year. In his “spare time” he will continue blogging on Psychology Today and complete a psychohistory biography of B.F. Skinner, a pioneer of modern behaviorism and one of the most influential psychologists of the twentieth century. The work will be based on interviews regarding psychology and religion that Dr. Chirban personally conducted and recorded with Skinner over a twenty-year period.

Dr. Chirban leaves an enduring legacy that will be celebrated in the coming academic year and remembered for many more years to come.
On May 15, 2015, members of the Holy Eparchial Synod, dignitaries, donors, friends, and family from around the United States and North America gathered to pay tribute to the Reverend Nicholas C. Triantafilou for his 15 years of stellar leadership as president of Hellenic College Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology. The event, entitled “Reflect, Honor, and Celebrate,” inaugurated the Presidential Scholarship Fund established in honor of Fr. Triantafilou. The fund supports scholarships for students, a cause which he championed throughout his tenure.
Hellenic College Holy Cross recently announced the appointment of Professor Photios Ketsetzis to the rank of Emeritus Professor. The appointment to the rank of Emeritus Professor is one of honor and esteem and requires approval of the Board of Trustees acting at the recommendation of the President, who acts on the recommendation of the Dean. Customarily, such faculty members will have served for at least fifteen years on the faculty of Holy Cross.

In making the announcement during the spring semester, Rev. Nicholas Triantafilou noted that the Board of Trustees of Hellenic College Holy Cross unanimously approved the recommendation of the faculty of Holy Cross to appoint Professor Ketsetzis as Professor of Byzantine Music Emeritus.

From 1992 to 2010, Professor Ketsetzis served at Hellenic College and Holy Cross as Professor, Protopsaltis of the Holy Cross Chapel, and Director of the St. Romanos the Melodist Byzantine Choir. He was trained under renowned master cantors Dimitrios Sourlantzis and Thrasyvoulos Stanitsas (Archon Protopsaltis of the Great Church of Christ). Between 1960 and 1992 he taught at high schools and conservatories and served as Protopsaltis in various churches in Greece, including the Panagia Megalochari Cathedral in Tinos. During this time he also founded and directed several choirs and made over 30 recordings of ecclesiastical music.

His legacy is still very much alive on our campus. Several books he authored, edited, or compiled (Anastasimatarion, Prologoi and Music for Sacraments, Holy Week, Heirmologion, Divine Liturgy) are used as the main textbooks and his CDs as supplementary training material for seven different courses in Byzantine music at Holy Cross. The same books are also used on a daily basis in the Holy Cross Chapel. During his tenure, he trained an entire generation of students in the sacred art of chanting. Several of his students are now serving the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America as priests, while others are distinguished cantors in several cities of the United States and abroad.

Photios Ketsetzis has received numerous awards and distinctions, chief of which is the office of Archon Protopsaltis of the Holy Archdiocese of America, which was conferred upon him by the late Archbishop Iakovos. By virtue of this office, he is the highest-ranking musician of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese in America. Currently, Archon Ketsetzis is Protopsaltis of Saint Demetrios Church in Palaio Psychiko, Athens, and continues to teach, compose, perform in concerts, make TV appearances, and produce recordings. More significantly, his virtuosity, his educational contributions, which span half a century, and his mastery of choral conducting have gained him an unparalleled international reputation. Archon Photios Ketsetzis is widely acknowledged as one of the greatest living cantors, if not the greatest.

I love Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology, and the MDiv program in particular, because it has been foundational to my formation spiritually, academically, and pastorally. Our spiritual formation comes not only from our liturgical life grounded in the Chapel, but also the pervasive Christocentric culture on the campus—a culture which follows us in our fieldwork assignments. Our academic formation in the classroom—and in our independent research—always has the service of Christ's people in the Church as its focus: the faculty never divorce the importance of our studies from their application. I love HCHC because everything we do has as its goal the attainment of the Christian vocation to love God with all our being, and to love all others as Christ loves us.

His Eminence Metropolitan Kallistos (Ware) of Diokleia delivered the Divine Compassion Distinguished Lecture at Hellenic College Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology on Saturday, June 20, 2015. He spoke on “Divine Compassion and the Restoration of the Human Icon.” The lecture was presented by Saint Catherine’s Vision (SCV), and co-sponsored by Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology and the Greek Orthodox Metropolis of Boston.

SCV is an international, Pan-Orthodox fellowship of women theologians and other lay servant-leaders engaging contemporary issues within the life of the Orthodox Church, blessed by the Assembly of Canonical Orthodox Bishops of the United States of America.

Greetings and introductions were offered by Dr. James Skedros, Dean of Holy Cross Greek Orthodox School of Theology, on behalf of His Eminence Archbishop Demetrios of America and His Eminence Metropolitan Methodios of Boston, and Dr. Kyriaki FitzGerald, Adjunct Professor in Theology at Holy Cross and SCV Executive Director. HCHC President, V. Rev. Christopher T. Metropulos, D.Min., served as master of ceremonies.

More than 200 participants attended this event. Metropolitan Kallistos spoke movingly on the centrality of divine compassion to which all human persons are called, created “in the image of God.” He elaborated on how this “image” is in the image of Christ, the Logos of God, and simultaneously in the image of the Holy Trinity.

The Divine Compassion Distinguished Lectureship also marked SCV’s official roll-out of their first public service ministry or diakonima, engaging the issue of divine compassion and human trafficking. Presvytera Maria Drossos, member of the SCV advisory board, offered a brief presentation on the severity of human trafficking, “the elephant in the room” both locally and globally in contemporary society.

An elegant brunch was served after the program, where audience participants were invited to an additional forum on “Divine Compassion and Human Trafficking” facilitated by Matushka Vera Proctor (MDiv, SVS), Director of FOCUS, Minneapolis, MN.

God has once again blessed HCHC with an excellent academic year filled with opportunities to train and educate the future leaders of our Church and society. We offer thanksgiving for the accomplishments of our students and the advancement of our school. Through greater outreach to our constituents, we have realized an increase in first-time donors this past fiscal year. While this represents a significant accomplishment, it does not tell the full story. We are also happy to report that we have experienced success in increasing the number of donors who support the school with consecutive annual gifts. Through thousands of faithful and generous benefactors, financial resources are applied to virtually every aspect of the vision and mission of the institution: student financial aid, faculty support, programs and institutes, special initiatives, and capital improvement projects.

Presidential Scholarship
Did you know that through the generosity of our donors, this year, in the first year of its existence, almost $500,000 was raised for the HCHC Presidential Scholarship? This prestigious scholarship helps HCHC attract and retain outstanding students by awarding scholarships to those who exhibit superior academic and leadership achievement and potential. This scholarship remains a top priority under the very capable and enthusiastic leadership of our new President, V. Rev. Christopher T. Metropulos, D.Min. To this end, we are planning “Presidential Engagement Gatherings” around the country in which you can meet Fr. Metropulos, hear firsthand about the exciting developments at HCHC, and help raise funds for the HCHC Presidential Scholarship. Please contact us so that we may help you plan a gathering in your city or town.

Other Exciting Initiatives
HCHC Trustees and Advancement staff have been hard at work on other exciting development initiatives. With God’s help, and through the generosity of our benefactors, these promising possibilities will improve both our academic programs and our campus. For example, we are hopeful that one particular initiative will result in one or more new buildings on campus. Your prayers, good will, and financial gifts help HCHC to meet these ever-changing needs. Because of you, HCHC is able to produce graduates who go into our parishes and the world as “…servants of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God” (1 Corinthians 4:1).

Rev. Dr. James Katinas
Director of Institutional Advancement

Exemplary Graduates
We are grateful to God for—and quite proud of—our sixty-four exceptional students who graduated this past May. What distinguishes our graduates is that they are Christ-centered and faithful servant-leaders in addition to being intelligent and proficient in their respective areas of study. Our graduates will do far more than make a living—they will transform lives, strengthen families, improve communities, and truly make a difference in the Church and the world—now and forever. This would not be possible without the generous gifts from you, our faithful donors.

I loved my time at Hellenic College for so many reasons—from the beautiful chapel to the wonderful professors who genuinely cared about my success. The HCHC community has such a special way of accepting people for who they are while simultaneously pushing them to be the best they can be. Thank you, HCHC family!

RACHEL CONTOS, Plainfield, IL
The 2015 Hellenic College Valedictorian, Rachel received her BA in Religious Studies with a minor in Ancient Greek. Rachel transferred to HCHC from Marquette University following her enrollment in the Semester of Faith program.
We convey our heartfelt appreciation to you, our loyal donors, for your generosity. Your gifts help Hellenic College Holy Cross—the intellectual, educational, and spiritual center of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of America—continue the teaching, research, and service that makes a difference for our Church and the world.

Through your support, HCHC is transforming lives, now and forever.

We thank all of our donors to the Annual Fund, Endowment Fund, Scholarship Fund, and Designated Institutes and Centers this fiscal year (July 1, 2014–June 30, 2015).
